JAMES F. KEACH IS CALLED BY DEATH

Prominent Banker and Business Man of This County Passes Away at Worthington.

WAS LOYAL AND TRUE CITIZEN

Recently Returned From Pacific Coast Where He Spent Winter In Quest of Health.

James F. Keach, the prominent banker and business man of this county, died of a complication of diseases at 12:15 o'clock this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. J. Baker of Worthington, where he had been visiting for several weeks. He had been in failing health for sometime and spent the winter on the Pacific Coast, hoping to regain his strength. He returned in April and was much improved. For a number of years Mr. Keach had made his home at Brownstown but because of his wide business interests had an extended acquaintance throughout the entire county.

Shortly after Mr. Keach arrived at his daughter's home at Worthington, he was taken ill and for the past few weeks had been in a critical condition. Mrs. Keach and several of his children were at Worthington at the time of his death. The remains will arrive at Brownstown this afternoon. The funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of the body.

Mr. Keach was born in Grassy Fork Township Dec. 26, 1846, making his age 66 years, 6 months and 20 days. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Keach, who came to Jackson county in 1855 from Washington County. The deceased was reared on a farm in Grassy Fork Township and was educated in the common schools of that locality. When the Civil War broke out, his father enlisted in the ranks of the Union army and upon the son devolved the management of the farm and also the mercantile business in which his father was engaged. At an early date he showed remarkable business ability, which resulted in him becoming one of the most successful business men of the county.

In 1866 Mr. Keach became in control of the store in Grassy Fork township which formerly belonged to his father, and conducted the business for a number of years. He built up a large and profitable business and the enterprise was regarded as one of the largest country stores in the county. He was also engaged in stock buying for several years.

Mr. Keach became a stockholder in the People's State Bank at Brownstown in 1890 and was a member of the directorate until February 1892 when he became interested in the organization of the Brownstown State Bank, of which he was president. After the banking institution was established he moved his family to Brownstown. Six years later became interested in the organization of a bank at Crothersville and brought about the establishment of the Crothersville State Bank. He was vice-president of this institution and until

NEW CURB AND GUTTER WILL BE BUILT ON NORTH WALNUT

This is Necessary to Conform to Grade Line of New Concrete Streets.

The excavation for the improvement on North Walnut street has been completed on several squares and this part of the work will be finished in a week or ten days. The street is being plowed to the depth of several inches in order that the crown of the paved street might be on the line given by the city engineer. The street is torn up from Seventh to Third and the other two squares will be plowed at once.

Since the dirt has been removed it has been found that it will be necessary to rebuild some of the concrete curbs and gutters. The ones which are now in service are not on the line on several blocks and if permitted to remain would interfere with the new street. The city engineer is giving the grade and the old curbs will be taken out and the new ones built before the work on the street is started. The expense of the new curbs will fall on the city.

It is not possible at this time to say just when the concrete work will begin. DeGolyer & Company, the contractors, are anxious to have the work proceed as rapidly as possible and will push the contract to completion. Several hundred feet of the concrete gutters will have to be taken up and the street cannot be started until the new curbs and gutters are rebuilt. With the new machinery the contractors are in a position to do their part of the contract rapidly and there will be little delay as soon as the preliminary work is out of the way.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM USED ON HERD OF SIXTY-THREE

Dr. H. Lett Vaccinates That Number For Charles Rich, of Jennings County.

H. Lett, a local veterinarian, went to Jennings county Tuesday where he vaccinated a herd of sixty-three hogs, belonging to Charles Rich, with the new hog cholera serum. Other farmers have used it with much success and find it an effective method of preventing the deadly cholera which kills a large number of hogs each year. The demand is steadily growing and a large supply will be used here this summer. It is said that the dry, hot weather may cause the cholera to appear among the hogs this summer and for this reason there is a good demand for the serum. H. C. Johnson, who owns a large number of hogs at his farm in Hamilton township, used the serum last year and found the results satisfactory.

It is said if a hog weighing from thirty-five to forty pounds is vaccinated it will not be necessary to use the serum more than one time. Where pigs are vaccinated, however, it is necessary to use the serum again or it will have little effect after they become older. When the simultaneous or double treatment is used the hog will be immune from the cholera for life. Farmers who have had their hogs treated with serum highly recommend it.

Miss Martha Keach was here from Crothersville this morning on her way to Brownstown on account of the death of her father, James F. Keach.

TO AVERT STRIKE THROUGH NEW LAW

President Wilson Signs Newlands-Clayton Bill After Quick Action of Congress.

PROVISIONS AGREED UPON

New Federal Measure Will Prevent Threatened Strike of 80,000 Rail Employees.

New federal machinery for the adjustment of railroad wage disputes was authorized late yesterday when the President signed the Newlands-Clayton bill after it has been rushed to passage by the House and Senate. It was agreed upon yesterday at the White House conference between President Wilson, congressional leaders and representatives of the big Eastern railroads.

This law creates the board of mediation and conciliation, headed by a commissioner, to which the Eastern railways and employees, brotherhoods have declared their willingness to submit the wage dispute on account of which 80,000 conductors and trainmen have voted to strike. The union officers agreed to an armistice until this afternoon, pending action by Congress, and officials expect them now to make ready to lay their case before the Federal mediators as soon as President Wilson makes the appointments.

The new law went through both Houses of Congress without an obstacle being put in its way. Late in the afternoon it reached the White House and soon afterward this statement was issued.

"The President signed the Newlands act as soon as it reached the White House this evening and announced through his secretary, Mr. Tamm, that he would proceed as soon as possible, consistent with the importance of the appointments, to the selection of the commissioners of mediation as provided in the act."

Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation, who has been instrumental in bringing the railroads and their employees together in the present dispute, is prominently mentioned for the position of commissioner of mediation and conciliation.

As the other two members of the board are to be government officials, it was regarded as probable that Judge Martin W. Knapp of the Commerce Court and an assistant to one of the Cabinet officers, possibly an assistant attorney general, would be considered.

DEPUTIES TALKED OVER YEAR'S PLANS

Fish and Game Commissioners of Southern District Held Annual Meeting Here.

WANT RESULTS, NOT ARRESTS

Decided That Educational Campaign For Law Enforcement Is Better Than Many Fines.

That it is better to conduct an educational campaign for the enforcement of the fish and game laws rather than make a large number of arrests, was decided by the deputy fish and game commissioners of the southern district at their annual meeting held at the Commercial Hotel in this city Tuesday afternoon. The session was called by Jacob Sottong, of Brookville, captain of this district composed of seven congressional districts. Each year the commissioners meet for the purpose of discussing the fish and game laws in general and this year it was decided to hold the meeting in this city.

Each district was represented by two commissioners with one exception, the seventh. Those present were: Fred Ehlers and C. Dixon, of the fourth; B. F. Kelley and Thomas Butler, of the fifth; Dennis Leason and J. Cannon, of the third; James Parson and I. Mock, of the first; J. Amos and Peter Graley, of the sixth; William Lamphere, of the seventh; and Victor Cassidy and John Simmons, of the second. The deputies manifested much interest in the meeting and it is believed that good results will be seen from the conference.

The commissioners were in favor of conducting an educational campaign for the enforcement of the fish and game laws. They were of the opinion that if the public realized the need of giving the fish and game proper protection they would assist in enforcing the law. Arrests should be made, it was decided, only when hunters persisted in violating the law, and proof was presented to show that the violations had been committed with knowledge of the regulations adopted by the legislature.

Special attention is to be given to the license law which requires that each hunter shall have a license before he is entitled to hunt, except on his own land. The licenses may be procured from the county clerk, but some inconvenience is experienced by persons living outside the county seat in purchasing them. Often times they neglect to file their applications until a short time before they go hunting and this causes them some inconvenience. In order to obviate this trouble, the commissioners have decided to place the blanks on sale at a number of business houses in town outside the county seat so that the licenses may be secured without the necessity of going to the court house.

The commissioners from the various districts reported that the work had advanced during the past year and that the conditions are in far better shape than ever before. They were unanimously of the opinion that the fish and game department is doing a good work and with the assistance of the public better results will be noticed.

Deputies Ehlers and Dixon of this district, are seining the bayous and isolated streams for minnows and reported that thousands of bass and other game fish had been removed to the main river. They are working in this county at the present time and desire the names of all bayous which may go dry before the close of the summer. They started the work at Rockford this afternoon and will spend a week or ten days here. They expect to save fifty thousand small bass in this manner. The bayous in southern Indiana will be seined by the deputy commissioners this summer.

THREE FREIGHT CARS LEFT B. & O. TRACK NEAR HAYDEN

Traffic Delayed Several Hours While Relief Crews Clear Main Track—No One Injured.

Traffic on the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad was delayed for several hours early this morning by a wreck which occurred at Hayden shortly after midnight when three empty cars of westbound freight train No. 57 were derailed. The derailment was caused by a draw bar falling from one of the cars. The car carrying the broken draw bar was turned cross-wise across the track and the two following cars left the rails. The train was running about thirty miles an hour. It was composed of forty-two cars. None of the crew was hurt.

The Seymour relief train reached the wreck about 2 o'clock and the derailed cars were thrown to the side of the track so that the trains would not be delayed longer than possible. The relief train from Cincinnati was also called to lift the cars. The damage to the rolling stock will not be heavy. The track was cleared about 7 o'clock this morning delaying the early morning trains for several hours. No. 55, westbound, reached the city about 7:30 o'clock. Local track repair men are working on the track as about 275 feet of track was torn up and damaged.

DEATH OF MRS. FRED HOEVENER FOLLOWS SERIOUS OPERATION

Deceased Was Seventy-One Years of Age and Lived at Tampico for Many Years.

Mrs. Fred Hoevenner, of Tampico, died at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Schneck Memorial Hospital where she underwent a serious operation Tuesday night. Her condition was critical when she was admitted to the hospital Tuesday and it was decided that an operation was necessary, although the results were doubtful. She had been ill for some time and was in a weakened condition. After the operation she rallied but the end came this afternoon.

Mrs. Hoevenner was seventy-one years of age and was born in Germany. When quite young she came to Indiana with her parents who settled near Tampico. She had been a resident of the vicinity since. She is survived by her husband and four children. The remains were taken to the family home this afternoon. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS TO BE DISCUSSED

Ambassador Wilson Called to Washington for Conference With President Wilson.

DETAILED REPORT DESIRED

Result of Meeting Will Forecast Administration's Attitude Towards Huerta's Government.

Washington, July 16—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, at Mexico, has been summoned to Washington for an immediate conference with President Wilson on the Mexican situation. This action is taken to forecast some important announcement on the administration's attitude toward the Huerta government.

It is known that the President desires a detailed report on conditions in the southern republic at the earliest moment.

The announcement that the ambassador had been asked to come to Washington was made by Secretary Bryan. Immediately after a conference at the White House with the President the secretary issued this statement:

"Ambassador Wilson has been asked to come to Washington to confer with the President personally on the situation in Mexico. The American embassy will be left in the charge of the first secretary, Mr. O'Shaughnessy."

It is known that the administration officials have been continuously opposed to recognition of the Huerta government until elections were held, and it has been expected that any future declaration to the foreign powers would be along the lines of the Latin-American statement by President Wilson soon after he took office. In this he proclaimed that his administration would seek to make a basis for intercourse with Latin-American countries the principle of governments set up on orderly processes, and "not upon arbitrary or irregular force." He also stated that the American government "would prefer those who act in the interest of peace and honor, who protect private rights and respect the restraints of constitutional provision."

While the administration officials have not expressed any opinion about Mexico specifically, it has frequently been stated informally that recognition would not be extended until the constitutional machinery in Mexico had been set in motion again to elect a new president to succeed the provisional president now acting.

THE RELIABILITY OF ADVERTISED ARTICLES

A man who is an authority on advertising said recently: "You may have a business without advertising, but you can't have advertising without a business."

Just think of the full significance of that statement to the newspaper reader.

It means that when you see any man advertising regularly in the better newspapers he must have something real and genuine to advertise; that he has merchandise of such quality that it meets the needs of his customers, and that he is so sure of the desirability of what he has to offer that he is willing to spend real money to tell people about it. He knows that money spent in advertising is well spent because he is so sure of his product that his chief problem is to let everyone know what he has to sell.

Knowing this, can you afford to let this valuable information offered you by the daily newspaper slip by through your own negligence? Do you not owe it to yourself to keep up to the minute by reading regularly the advertising columns of good publications like THE REPUBLICAN.

You will certainly save money by trading at The Day Light Dry Goods Store.

Around the Railroads.

Analysis of Fatalities.

The Pennsylvania system has issued an illustrated pamphlet, giving the analysis of fatalities on its lines east of Pittsburg in 1912, and showing the methods employed to guard against accidents.

"If there had not been a single train wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburg in 1912," the report says, "nevertheless twenty-three passengers—falling off trains, walking in front of trains at stations and getting on and off moving trains—would have been killed.

"The fact is that 837,121 trains were run an aggregate distance of forty million miles, carrying, all told, one hundred million people, and two trains suffered wrecks causing loss of life.

Many Empty Freight Cars.

Practically every foot of track in the extensive Jeffersonville yards of the Pennsylvania Lines is crowded with empty freight cars. Several hundred have been sent to the empty tracks near the Indiana reformatory, west of the city, and the company had a number run down on the "dinky" line, the use of which for suburban trains has been abandoned. The yards are so congested that in some cases cars consigned to local men have not been delivered because they can not be taken to the switches and a delay of several days has occurred in one or two instances. There are more empties here than at any time in six years.

Railroad Statistics.

Employees of American railways received 44.17 per cent. of the gross earnings of the railways for 1912, according to statistics just compiled. Material, supplies and miscellaneous expenses called for 14.06 per cent; fuel and oil, 8.93 per cent; taxes, 4.21 per cent; loss and damage, 2.20 per cent, making a total of 73.57 per cent of the gross earnings the railroads paid out for operating expenses. Dividends total 4.84 per cent; betterments, deficits and deductions, 3.75 per cent, and rents for leased roads, 4.41 per cent.

recent years, took an active part in its management. He was also one of the organizers of the Linton State Bank at Linton, but because of other financial and business interests was unable to accept the offer to become a member of the board of directors.

On December 24th, occurred the wedding of Mr. Keach and Miss Elizabeth A. Moore, of Floyd county. To them were born eleven children, all of whom are living. They are: Mrs. George M. Beldon, of Crothersville, Mrs. H. J. Baker, of Worthington, Clyde W., cashier of the Crothersville State Bank, Raymond R., of this city, Mrs. Fred Heller, of Browns-town, Mrs. Albert Nelson, of Teko, Washington, Mrs. James Weir, of Missouri, Montana, Benjamin H., of Marklesville, Susan, Martha and Walter, of Brownstown. The deceased is also survived by his widow, his aged mother, three sisters, Mrs. Davis Young, of Oklahoma, Mrs. America Tull, of Wichita, Kansas, and Mrs. Charles Wayman, of Eugene, Oregon, and eighteen grandchildren. His mother, who is eighty-nine years of age, formerly made her home with him, but for several years has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Tull, at Wichita.

In the death of Mr. Keach, Jackson county lost a loyal and progressive citizen. He was always ready to assist in any enterprise which would result in the betterment of conditions and was deeply interested in local affairs. He was public spirited and had the highest respect of a extended circle of friends and business acquaintances. He was a loyal Republican and worked faithfully for the welfare of his chosen party. He served four years as trustee of Grassy Fork township, having been elected in 1873. In the performance of the duties of that office he proved himself faithful to the trust imposed in him, capable and efficient.

Mr. Keach was a member of the Christian church and was active in church work. He contributed liberally to the various departments and aided with his advice and counsel. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. fraternal order, having affiliated with that lodge at Tappico.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Bush Best All Around Short-stop, Says Jennings.

Owens Bush, Detroit's little short-stop, is the best all around man in the position today. So says Manager Hugh Jennings. "The little fellow covers more ground than most of the men holding down the job at short field," said Hughes recently. "He pegs as accurately as the best. As a batter, well, he's always there with the bingle when it's needed. As for speeding around the paths, there are few who have anything on him at all. Yes, sir, Bush is the best all around man in the position."

International Lawn Tennis Pays.

It has been said that America is "sport mad." That the general boom in interest in competitive events extends to tennis is proved by the figures, learned recently, placing the total gate receipts of the recent international matches here at $19,000. Of this surprising sum $7,000 went to defray the expenses of the American team. Of the net profits of $12,000 half was turned over to the Australian team. The West Side Lawn Tennis club of New York, on whose courts the matches were played, received $1,400, and the remaining $4,600 was put in the treasury of the National Lawn Tennis association.

Athletics in Finland.

Melvin Sheppard tells of a talk with an official of the Finnish Athletic association in which the latter was asked if there was any difference between amateurs and professionals in Finland. "None at all," replied the Finn. "As far as I can see the only difference between an amateur and a professional in America is that the amateur either cannot or is afraid to sign his name, while a professional attaches his signature to the receipt for any money he earns. In Finland the athletes for the most part cannot write, so there is no difference at all between the pro and the simon pure."

Uncle Sam is going to teach his sailors or boys to box. Not that the fistic science is a lost art in the navy. Boxing has always been popular with the sailors, and from their ranks have emerged more famous ring men than from any other walk of life. But at the present time so many of the bluejackets are interested in the sport that there has arisen a demand for a competent instructor to explain the mysteries of the jab, hook and sidestep.

NOTABLES IN THE LIMELIGHT

William E. Gonzales, the New Minister to Cuba.

Our new minister to Cuba, William Elliott Gonzales, is not a stranger to that country, and when he assumes the position to which he has been appointed by President Wilson he will be returning to the land of his ancestors. Born in the United States, he is intensely American in his point of view, but this has not prevented him from taking a deep interest in the development of Cuba.

His name is a link between the two countries. His father, General Ambrosio Jose Gonzales, a native of Matanzas, Cuba, married into the old Elliott family of South Carolina, and the new minister to Cuba was named for his uncle, William Elliott, a one time representative in congress.

After the death of his brother, Noris, Mr. Gonzales became editor of the Columbia State. Like his brother, he had been a soldier in the war with Spain, having served as captain in the Second South Carolina regiment and having gone to Cuba with the army of pacification.

there under Bishop Johnston in 1894 he became dean of St. Matthew's cathedral, Dallas, where he served ten years more. In 1904 he surprised everybody by giving up fine prospects and going to Alaska, where he has been ever since.

Rev. Dr. Stuck is a tireless, vigorous and ambitious worker in any field he enters, and nobody who knows him wonders he got to the top of Mount McKinley. As archdeacon of Alaska it has been his work to travel thousands of miles by dogs and on foot, and he has helped Bishop Rowe to build up a missionary work in Alaska that is famous in all missionary annals.

Champion Officeholder.

Judge B. K. Long, "the champion officeholder of the world," has just resigned his one hundred and seventy-ninth office, at the age of eighty-seven years. For the last twenty years he has been a justice in Omaha and in that time has tried more than 10,000 cases. He began his officeholding in Newburyport, Mass., in 1840, and during his long career has been defeated but once. "I wouldn't quit now," he stated, "only I'm getting a little too old to hear witnesses as I once could."

One Idea of New York.

He had been set upon by thugs as he stepped from the ferryboat. It was his first visit to New York, and for a few moments it looked as if his first visit would be his last. But presently he staggered along the street and met a policeman.

"What's wrong, my friend?" the kind officer inquired.

"I've been robbed of all my money," stammered the victim.

"All your money? Look again."

"It's no use. I ain't got a dollar."

Whereupon the policeman burst into tears and walked away.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Scandal's Development.

I met a little scandal yesterday.

It seemed afraid to be abroad alone.

A timid thing, it shunned the crowd's way.

And there was something wistful in its tone.

It shrank within the shadows, seemingly desirous of a chance to hide somewhere.

To find some nook in which to creep and be forgotten there.

This morning I encountered it again.

Where many people hurried to and fro it turned away from doubters with disdain.

And it had grown as few things ever grow.

With boldness that amazed me it appeared.

And, courting the attention of the crowd, said blatantly what yesterday it feared to speak aloud.

The Roller Towel.

Roll on, thou roller towel, roll on!

The charm of life from thee is gone.

Thou long didst stand behind the door;

Thou didst help to dust the floor.

I made upon thee an impress

That held thee for awhile, I guess.

Upon thy features were the signs

That told to shrewd detective minds

Who here had wiped and who wiped there

And who had e'en shampooed his hair.

The little germs sped o'er thy face

And giggled at the human race.

The tiny microbes thought it fun

But now, alas, thy fateful day

Has torn thee from thy place away.

Control of Ants.

Many housewives in Seymour are having considerable trouble with ants and will be interested in the following bulletin sent out by the state entomologist:

The red and black house ants are quite fond of a large variety of food stuff and the first essential in getting rid of ants is to keep all articles of food in tight containers. Absolute cleanliness is essential in combatting these pests and grains of sugar or crumbs of bread or other unnoticeable bits of food often form an attraction for the ants. Should these insects become very troublesome, permanent relief can be afforded by locating the nest by watching where the workers go and then injecting several ounces of carbon bisulphide into it, and plugging up the entrance. This will kill the queen and workers present and the nest will soon die out. However, the nests are often hard to find and this is particularly true of those of the red ant. In this event, diversified methods of control must be resorted to. Where the insects are in an ice box, this should be set off the floor with the legs resting in small pans of oil. Crude or cheap machine oil is good. Care must be taken so that no part of the legs touch the sides of the pans and no part of the box must touch the wall, to afford a bridge. When the ants seem to be scattered promiscuously throughout the kitchen or pantry, sponges soaked in a sweetened solution may be left lying about and whenever the ants have gattered on it the sponge should be dropped into a bucket of boiling water. Persistence in killing these insects in this manner often discourages them and they will turn elsewhere to seek their food.

SHAM BATTLE IS REFOUGHT ON MOTION PICTURE SCREEN

The sham battle at Indian Mound July 4th will be refought tonight on the screen at the Majestic theater. The Municipal and Commercial Film Manufacturing Company, who recorded the movements of the fight with a motion picture camera, have the film ready for exhibition and will present it for the first time tonight. A preliminary exhibition of the reel was given last night before the representatives of the company and the local press.

The pictures are clear and distinct, considering the cloud of smoke and unfavorable circumstances under which some of the scenes were taken. Many of the individual soldiers and Indians can be recognized in the fight. The Indian play and the reburial of the Indian bones are also part of the reel. Several parts of the reel shows some good pictures of the crowd. An excellent picture of T. S. Blish and his son, Tipton, Jr., are shown, this portion of the reel having been taken at Mr. Blish's home. The pictures will be shown here for four days.

EUROPE TAKES A HAND IN AFFAIRS

Wants to Know Our Intentions Regarding Mexico.

DEMANDS OUR EARLY ACTION

Affecting to Be "Extremely Annoyed" at What Seems to Them the Inexplicable Attitude of the Wilson Administration Toward Mexico, European Governments Are Beginning to Inquire What We Are Going to Do.

Washington, July 16.—It is becoming apparent that President Wilson and Secretary of State Wm. J. Bryan will be unable much longer to ignore the situation in Mexico as a grave and pressing international problem which the United States as the responsible nation in the western hemisphere must squarely face. This has become evident from important recent developments.

It was disclosed, for one thing, that all the foreign ministers in Mexico City recently drew up an identical note which they dispatched to their governments, solemnly declaring that the United States by its stubborn refusal to recognize the Mexican government, is directly contributing to the increasing disorder in that country. The identical note urged that the other governments call upon the Washington government either to recognize the Huerta government or undertake the task of restoring order in Mexico.

It was further disclosed that the diplomatic representative of at least one European power has called upon Secretary Bryan and presented practically the alternatives urged by the diplomatic corps in Mexico City. Mr. Bryan was requested to inform this government what the United States intends to do, if anything, with regard to the international nuisance existing in what is virtually its back yard.

Furthermore, it became known definitely that every great foreign office in Europe is disgusted with the failure of the United States to do anything directly or indirectly to relieve the frightful state of affairs in Mexico. The European governments are "extremely annoyed," as one embassy expressed it, at what seems to them the inexplicable attitude of the Wilson government toward Mexico. The increase of anti-Americanism in Mexico has really been welcomed by European governments, which hope that this bold exhibition of hostility to America and the American embassy there will goad the United States into doing something. It is a maxim in all Latin American countries that no government in that part of the world which fails to receive the recognition of the United States can long exist.

Knowing this, the diplomatic corps in Mexico City, the governments of Europe and the Mexicans themselves are explaining the refusal of the United States to recognize the present government of Mexico solely on the assumption that the United States desires that the Huerta government be destroyed. In Europe they have reached the conviction that President Wilson and Mr. Bryan are persisting in their attitude with the deliberate intention of having conditions get so very bad in Mexico that there will be a sufficient excuse to intervene.

Mexicans declare President Wilson is hoping that by holding off he will the more easily take possession of Mexico, which has exhausted herself in internal dissension. In all Latin America the belief is growing that the United States is waiting for Mexico to destroy herself. That these beliefs are absolutely groundless does not make their existence in the minds of other governments any the less embarrassing.

With pressure being brought to bear on the United States by other governments, the Wilson administration finds itself in a most difficult situation. As has been told in these dispatches, it has tied its hands in regard to Mexico by refusing to recognize the Huerta government. The administration pinned its faith to the hope that Mexico would not rise as a pressing problem until tariff and currency could be got out of the way and that after the Mexican elections in October a new government would come into office, which the United States consistently could recognize. The indications now are that the Mexican situation will not wait on the wishes of the administration.

To change the policy now would be difficult. Recognition of Huerta at this time would be a confession before the world that a mistake had been made. Self-stultification would be the result of doing now what for four months it has refused to do. On the other hand, intervention in Mexico is the very last thing the Wilson administration contemplates or wishes for. It is expected that the administration will continue its day-to-day policy until some veritable explosion forces its hand.

REALIZING GRAVITY OF THEIR OFFENSE

Diggs and Caminetti Drop Flippant Manner.

San Francisco, July 16.—The Western Fuel fraud conspiracy cases and the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases have been set for trial by Federal Judge Van Fleet for Aug. 5 and Aug. 25 respectively. Special Federal Prosecutor Matt Sullivan urged an early date be set for both cases, declaring he and Theodore J. Roche and Thomas Hayden were ready to proceed at once. The judge ordered a jury venire of fifty, to be drawn at once. The eight officials of the Western Fuel company were in court, flanked by a battery of prominent legal talent.

Drew Caminetti and Maury Diggs, the young married men involved in the now famous scandal, were in court. Their demeanor was noticeably changed from their brazen and flippant attitude at their arrest after their elopement to Reno with Marcia Warrington and Lola Norry, the Sacramento high school girls, following their desertion of their wives and children in Sacramento. Both defendants seemed to realize the gravity of their offense.

The objections to Hayden serving as prosecutor, which was made in Washington by Senator Ashurst, are founded largely on charges made by State Senator Sanford, who declares that Hayden is very friendly to Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, father of one of the defendants, and therefore is unfit to serve as prosecutor. Hayden also is objected to by several leading lawyers here because of his lack of experience in court. Though a member of the bar for years, no one can recall his public appearance in any case.

Two Victims of the Rail.

Goshen, Ind., July 16.—Albert Wyland, fifty-eight years old, a section laborer, was killed by a Big Four train two miles north of Goshen. Secretary Bryan is right when he says that a cabinet officer cannot live on $12,000 a year, says Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury in President Taft's cabinet.

Augustus O. Bacon has been elected by popular vote to succeed himself as United States senator from Georgia. Senator Bacon was unopposed and the vote cast was exceedingly light.

A SEEMINGLY ENDLESS FILE

The Mulhall Letters Stretch Out Interminably.

SOME INDIANA SIDE LIGHTS

In the Course of the Examination of Veteran Lobbyist of National Manufacturers' Association Before Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, Certain Incidents Relating to Watson and Beveridge Are Referred To.

Washington, July 16.—In the course of his examination before the senate lobby commission the most interesting statement made by Colonel M. M. Mulhall had to do with a strike-breaking expedition he made to St. Louis at the time of the boot and shoe workers' walkout in 1907.

"While I was in St. Louis I was given $3,000 in cash to use in settling the strike," said the colonel. "I made an arrangement with a strike leader there by the name of Frank that if he would settle the strike within a certain period he should be paid the $3,000."

"Who paid you the $3,000?" asked Senator Reed.

"Fred C. Schwedman, secretary of the president of the National Manufacturers' association," replied the witness.

"The money was placed for safe keeping in the safe of the Planters hotel in St. Louis, and when the strike was not ended in the time specified in my verbal contract with Mr. Frank it was turned back to Mr. Schwedman. I did not think it was fair. Frank had completed the adjustment and had succeeded in having the strike called off and he should have had his money."

Mulhall's statement was accepted apparently at face value, but Schwedman, who was in the room at the time, was white with anger. Later he said when questioned in regard to the charge: "This is a lie out of whole cloth. Every detail and circumstance of the story related by Mulhall is the basest sort of fabrication."

From St. Louis the scene of Mulhall's activities shifted to Indiana. There the fight for the election of James E. Watson as governor was about to be inaugurated. Mulhall related that he was sent to Indianapolis with letters of introduction from the then president of the association, James A. VanCleave, to D. M. Parry, a director and the former president of the organization. The campaign in favor of Mr. Watson was one of the most expensive ever waged by the N. A. M., according to its former agent. He declared he never knew the exact sum expended. He had, he said, solicited subscriptions to the Watson campaign in Indiana from manufacturers, particularly in Indianapolis, that had netted the campaign $22,000. He did not know how much more had been collected, but he was sure his own solicitations were but a small part.

Reference to Mulhall's stay in Indianapolis brought out that he knew former Senator Albert J. Beveridge.

"Sure, I know Senator Beveridge," asserted Mulhall. "I was introduced to him in a room in the Claypool hotel. Mr. Parry, ex-president of the N. A. M., was there at the time, and Senator Beveridge put his arm around Mr. Parry's neck and said with evident feeling: 'Here's the man that sent me to the United States senate.'"

"Watson was broke once in Rushville," continued Mulhall, shifting the scene of action from Indianapolis for a moment, "and he wrote that he needed money to get into the campaign."

"We had collected $3,000 in Indianapolis from Mr. Parry and other members of the N. A. M. As soon as I acquainted them with Watson's plight they sent him $1,000, and soon thereafter another $1,000."

EACH SIDE BLAMES OTHER

Bulgars and Greeks Continue to Indulge in Recriminations.

London, July 16.—The only news affecting the crisis in the Balkans is the statement from Sofia that Dr. Daneff, who accepted the premiership a month ago, has resigned. No details are given. There are more reports from both sides of alleged atrocities. The Greeks accuse the Bulgarians of burning the village of Dexam Niederama and massacring 500 inhabitants. The pursuing Greeks overtook the Bulgarians and a sharp fight resulted. The Bulgarians retreated and left seventy wagon loads of ammunition on the field.

Bulgaria also charges that the Greeks have been massacring people and committing atrocities which are equally as horrible as those charged to the Bulgars. The Bulgarians say that when the Greeks entered the town of Pravitshta they massacred the entire population. Word from Belgrade says that complete quiet prevails along the whole frontier of the armies.

Inez Milholland Marries.

FURTHER EXPLANATION OF BRYAN'S POSITION

Secretary of State Amplifies Chautauqua Statement.

Washington, July 16.—Secretary of State Bryan has felt obliged to defend himself against the flood of criticism that has poured in on account of his absences from Washington on the Chautauqua platform.

Mr. Bryan has issued a statement in which he announces that his forthcoming six weeks speaking tour would be his vacation. He reiterated his statement that he was unable to live within his salary of $12,000 a year, and added that he is sacrificing $40,000 net income by serving as secretary of state for four years. Mr. Bryan acknowledges that in the last seventeen years he has saved $170,000. Inasmuch as this apparently does not include investments which Mr. Bryan may have made, there seems to be good reason for the statement that he is worth between $400,000 and $500,000.

While Mr. Bryan was doing this explaining at the state department, things were happening at the capitol. Senator Bristow arose from his seat and introduced a resolution calling upon President Wilson to advise the senate what salary is necessary in order to retain to the government the exclusive services of the secretary of state and keep him in Washington. The Bristow resolution flabbergasted the Democrats of the senate for a few minutes, but they got their wind soon enough to shut off debate on the resolution. It will come up under the rules of the senate on Friday, and Senator Bristow intends to push it.

These developments indicate clearly the rumpus that has been stirred up in the national capital over Mr. Bryan's Chautauqua circuit predilections. Nothing more embarrassing for the Democrats and the Wilson administration has yet occurred than this attempt by Mr. Bryan to use the time for which the government is paying him, to deliver Chautauqua speeches for hire. Not the least humiliating feature of the case is the knowledge that it will be used in Europe to add to the ridiculous impression that already has been created by the grape juice and other stirring episodes in Mr. Bryan's brief career as head of the state department.

SATISFIED THEIR CURIOSITY

Christian Scientists Broke Open Coffin of Reputed Saint.

Dijon, July 16.—Some Christian Scientists here were anxious to ascertain whether or not "Mother" Francoise Sauvestre, who died in 1902, had flown straight to heaven, and therefore requested permission to open the coffin in which her body had been buried. The authorities refused to grant this request, and thereupon the Christian Scientists rushed into the cemetery and dug up the coffin, which they broke open. They carried away some of the bones as relics. The police arrived about the time the Scientists were leaving and arrested several of them.

MAKING WAR ON "BLIND TIGERS"

Muncie Lawyer "Takes the Bull By the Horns."

HE IMPORTED DETECTIVES

These Men Make Investigations of Conditions in That City Which Led to the Filing of Affidavits on Which Eleven Men Have Been Arrested, Charged With Conducting Illegal Places For the Sale of Liquor.

Muncie, Ind., July 16.—As the result of investigations made by detectives in the employ of Horace G. Murphy, a local "dry" attorney, eleven men were arrested here on affidavits charging the defendants with operating "blind tigers."

Murphy, who was the Republican defeated candidate for prosecutor at the last election, started his crusade two weeks ago. He is said to have brought private detectives here and they made the rounds of the alleged "tigers" in the city and obtained the evidence on which the affidavits were filed. Murphy then presented the evidence to Prosecutor Eckman, Democrat, who is said to be a "wet" man, and demanded that he file the affidavits.

Conditions in Muncie at this time, so far as violations of the liquor and gambling laws are concerned, according to Murphy, are the worst in the history of the city. He says he is confident there are more than 200 "blind tigers" in the city.

The present city administration was elected by the "wet" element, and Murphy declares the police department is making no effort to stop the operation of "blind tigers."

BURNED BODY TO A CRISP

Shocking Accident Befalls Wire Worker at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., July 16.—A man stood over a manhole in the downtown district, smoking a cigar and watching a workman laboring over a mass of wires beneath the pavement. He turned to leave the spot and tossed his cigar into the hole.

A sheet of flame burst into the air forty feet from the hole and the workman, Fred Roberts, an employee of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company, was burned to a crisp. He shouted for assistance and a dozen hands pulled him from the hole and quickly put out the fire in his clothing.

Every stitch of his clothing was on fire. The flesh had already begun to peel from his face and arms, and much of his hair was gone. Roberts was moved to the hospital, but it is not believed he has a chance for recovery.

Escaping gas in the hole is said to have been responsible for the explosion. Similar explosions occurred at practically every manhole downtown as a result, but no other person was injured.

He Ignored the Warning.

Milford, Ind., July 16.—George Richie, twenty years old, a painter, took hold of a live wire and was instantly killed. Richie ignored a warning not to go near the wire.

AFFIXED SIGNATURE TO THE NEW LAW

President Paves Way for Averting Strike.

Washington, July 16.—In accordance with the agreement reached at the White House conference, the house and the senate promptly passed the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act, and last night the president affixed his signature to the new act. This means that the government's pledge to the representatives of the railroads and of the employees has been carried out, and it only remains now for the president to appoint the board of mediation and conciliation for the wheels to be set in operation for a settlement of the controversy between the eastern railroads and their conductors and trainmen. The president announced that he would proceed as soon as possible with the selection of the commissioner of mediation as provided in the Newlands act.

It was said that the president had not yet made up his mind as to whom he will appoint as commissioner and as to the two government officials that he will designate to serve on the board with his commissioner. Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation, who has been instrumental in bringing the railroads and their employees together in the present dispute, is prominently mentioned for the position of commissioner.

She Refused to Live With Him.

Evansville, Ind., July 16.—Because she refused to live with him, Mrs. Anna Gray, thirty-five years old, was shot and instantly killed by Will Springer, thirty-six years old, engineer at the Vendome hotel. Springer made his escape. The woman was married, but not living with her husband. Springer, who is a widower with several children, has been attentive to Mrs. Gray and insisted on her becoming his housekeeper.

"Easy" Way to End Life.

Winamac, Ind., July 16.—Claude Hickman, eighteen years old, while showing neighbor boys how easy it would be to commit suicide, placed the muzzle of a rifle to his right eye and said, "All you would have to do would be to pull the trigger." In some unexplained way the weapon was discharged and the young man fell dead, with a bullet in his brain.

THE Melting of Molly

LEAF FOURTH, Monument or Trousseau?

THAT night I did so many exercises that at last I sank exhausted in a chair in front of my mirror and put my head down on my arms and cried the real tears you cry when nobody is looking. I felt terribly old and ugly and dowdy and—widowed. It couldn't have been jealousy, for I just love that girl. I want most awfully to hug her very slimness, and it was more what she might think of poor dummy me than what any man in Hillsboro, Tenn., or Paris, France, could possibly feel on the subject that hurt so hard. But then, looking back on it, I am afraid that jealousy sheds feathers every night so you won't know him in the morning, for something made me sit up suddenly with a spark in my eyes and reach out to the desk for my pencil and check book. It took me more than an hour to figure it all up, but I went to bed a happier, though in prospects a poorer woman.

It is strange how spending a man's money makes you feel more congenial with him, and as I sat in the cars on my way to the city early the next morning I felt nearer to Mr. Carter than I almost ever did, alive or dead. After this I shall always appreciate and admire him for the way he made money, since, for the first time in my life, I fully realized what it could buy. And I bought things!

First I went to see Mme. Courtier for corsets. I had heard about her, and I knew it meant a fortune. But that didn't matter. She came in and looked at me for about five minutes without saying a word, and then she ran her hands down and down over me until I could feel the flesh just crawling off me. It was delicious!

Then she and two girls in puffs and rats came in and did things to a corset they laced on me that I can't even write down, for I didn't understand the process, but when I looked in that long glass I almost dropped on the floor. I wasn't tight and I wasn't stiff and I looked—I'm too modest to write how lovely I really looked to myself. I was spellbound with delight.

Next I signed the check for three of those wonders with my head so in the clouds I didn't know what I was doing, but I came to with a jolt when the prettiest girl began to get me into that black taffeta bag I had worn down to the city. I must have shrunk the whole remaining pounds I had felt obliged to lose for Alfred and Ruth Chester from the horror I felt when I looked at myself. The girl was really sympathetic and said with a smile that was true kindness: "Shall I call a taxi for madame and have it take her to Klein's? They have wonderful gowns by Rene all ready to be fitted at short notice. Really, madame's figure is such that it commands a perfect costume now." Men do business well, but when women enter the field they are geniuses at money extracting. I felt myself already clothed perfectly when that girl said my figure "commanded" a proper dress. Of course Klein pays Mme. Courtier a commission for the customers she passes right on to him. The one for me must have looked to her like a real estate transaction.

I spent three days at the great Klein store, only going to the hotel to sleep and most of the time I forgot to eat. Mme. Rene must have been Mme. Courtier's twin sister in youth, and Mme. Telliers in the hat department was the triplet to them both. When women have genius it breaks out all over them like measles and they never recover from it; those women had the confident kind. But I know that old Rene really liked me, for when I blushed and asked her if they had a good beauty doctor in the store she held up her hands and shuddered.

"Never, madame, never pour vous. Ravissante, charmante—it is to fool. Nevaire! Jamais, jamais de la vie!" I had to calm her down, and she kissed my hand when we parted.

I thought Klein was going to do the same thing or worse when I signed the check which would be good for a house and lot and motorcar for him, but he didn't. Only he got even with me by saying, "And I am delighted that the trousseau is perfectly satisfactory to you, Mrs. Carter."

That was an awful shock and I hope I didn't show it as I murmured, "Perfectly, thank you."

The word "trousseau" can be spoken in a woman's presence for many years with no effect, but it is an awful shock when she first really hears it. I felt funny all afternoon as I packed those trunks for the 5 o'clock train.

Yes, the word "trousseau" ought to have a definite surname after it all ways and that's why my loyalty dragged poor Mr. Carter out into the light of my conscience. The thinking of him had a strange effect on me. I had laid out the dream in dark gray blue taffeta, tailored almost beyond endurance, to wear home on the train and had thrown the old black taffeta bag across the chair to give to the hotel maid, but the decision of the session between conscience and loyalty made me pack the precious blue wonder and put on once more the black rags of remembrance in a kind of panic of respect.

I would lots rather have bought poor Mr. Carter the monument I have been planning for months to keep up conversation with Aunt Adeline than wear that dress again. I felt conscience reprove me once more with loyalty looking on in disapproval as I buttoned the old thing up for the last time, because I really ought to have stayed over a day to buy that monument, but, to tell the truth, I wanted to see Billy so desperately that his "sleep place" above my heart hurt as if it might have prickly heat break out at any minute.

So I hurried and stuffed the gray-blue darling in the top tray, lapped old black taffeta around my waist and belted it in with a black belt off a new green linen I had made for morning walks down to the drug store on the public square, I suppose. That is about the only morning dissipation in Hillsboro that I can think of, and it all depends on whom you meet how much of a dissipation it is.

The next thing that happens after you have done a noble deed is, you either regard it as a reward of virtue or as a punishment for having been foolish. I felt both ways when Judge Wade came down the car aisle, looking so much grander than any other man in sight that I don't see how they stand him over. At that minute the noble black taffeta 'deed felt foolish, but at the next minute I thanked my lucky stars for it.

It is nice to watch for a person to catch sight of you if you feel sure how he is going to take it, and somehow in this case I felt sure. I was not disappointed, for his smile broke his face up into a joy laugh. Off came his hat instantly so I could catch a glimpse of the fascinating frost over his temples, and with a positive sigh of rapture he subsided into the seat beside me. I turned with an echo smile all over me, when suddenly his face became grave and considerate, and he looked at me as all the men in Hillsboro have been doing ever since poor Mr. Carter's funeral.

"Mrs. Carter," he said very kindly, in a voice that pitched me out of the car window and left me a mile behind on the track, all by myself, "I wish I had known of your sad errand to town so I could have offered you some assistance in your selection. You know we have just had our lot in the cemetery finally arranged, and I found the dealers in memorial stones very confusing in their ideas and designs. Mrs. Henderson just told my mother of your absence from home last night, and I could only come down to the city for the day on important business or I would have arranged to see you. I hope you found something that satisfied you."

What's a woman going to say when she has a tombstone thrown in her face like that? I didn't say anything, but what I thought about Aunt Adeline filled in a dreadful pause. Perfectly dumb and quiet I sat for an awful space of time and wondered just what I was going to do. Could a woman lie a monument into her suit case? It was beyond me at that speaking, and the Molly that is ready for life quick didn't want to. I shut my eyes, counted three to myself as I do when I go over into the cold tub, and told him all about it. We both got a satisfactory reaction, and I never enjoyed myself so much as that before.

I understand now why Judge Wade has had so many women martyr themselves over him and live unhappily ever afterward, as everybody says Henrietta Mason is doing. He's a very inspiring man, and he fairly bristles with fascinations. Some men are what you call taking, and they take you if they want you, while others are drawing, and after you are drawn to them they will consider the question of taking you. The judge is like that.

In the meantime it tangles me up to a very great degree to have a man use his eyes on me, as it is the privilege of only womankind to do, and I feel that it will be good for his judgment for me to let him "draw" me at least a little way. I may get hurt, but I shall at least have an interesting time of it. I started right then and got results, for he stopped under the old lilac bush that leans over my side gate and kissed my hand. Old lilac shook a laugh of perfume all over us, and I believe signaled the event at the top of his bough to the white clump on the other side of the garden. I'm glad Aunt Adeline isn't in the flower fraternity or sorority. Suppose she had seen or heard!

And it didn't take me many minutes to slip into old summer before last—also for the last time inside of those buttons—and run through the garden, my heart singing "Billy, Billy," in a perfect rapture of tune. I ran past the office door and found him in his cot almost asleep, and we had a bear reunion in the rocker by the window that made us both breathless.

"What did you bring me, Molly?" he finally kissed under my right ear.

"A real baseball bat and, lover, and an engine with five cars, a rake and a spade and a hoe, two blowguns that pop a new way and something that squirts water and some other things. Will that be enough?" I hugged him up anxiously, for sometimes he is hard to please and I might not have got the very thing he wanted.

"Thank you, Molly; all them things is what I want, but you oughter bring more'n that for three days not being here with me." Did any woman ever have a more lovely lover than that? I don't know how long I should have rocked him in the twilight if Dr. John's voice hadn't come across the hall in command.

"Put him down now, Mrs. Molly, and come and say other how do you does," he called softly.

It was a funny glad to see him I felt as I came into the office where he was standing over by the window looking out at my garden in its twilight glow. I think it is wrong for a woman to let her imagination kiss a man on the back of his neck even if she has known for some time that there is a little drake tail lock of hair there just like his own son's. I gave him my hand and a good deal more of a smile and a blush than I intended.

He very far from kissed the hand; he held it just long enough to turn me around into the light and give me one long looking over from head to foot.

"Just where does that corset press you worst?" he asked in the tone of voice he uses to say, "Poke out your tongue." So much of my Tennessee shooting blood rose to my face that it is a wonder it didn't drip, but I was cold enough to have hit at forty paces if I had had a shooting iron in my hand. As it was, the coldness was the only missile that I had, but I used it to some effect.

"I am making a call on a friend, Dr. Moore, and not a consultation visit to my physician," I said, looking into his face as though I had never seen him before.

"I beg your pardon, Molly," he exclaimed. And his face was redder than mine, and then it went white with mortification. I couldn't stand that.

"Don't do that way," I exclaimed. And before I knew it I had taken hold of his hand and had it in both of mine. "I know I look as if I was shrunk or laced, but I'm not. I was going to tell you all about it and show it to you. I'm really inches bigger in the right place and just—just 'controlled,' the woman called it, in the wrong place. Please feel me and see." And I offered myself to him for examination in the most regardless way. He's not at all like other people.

The blood came back into his face, and he laughed as he gave me a little shake that pushed me away from him. "Don't you ever scare me like that again, child, or it might be serious," he said in the Billy and me tone of voice that I like some, only—

"I never will," I said in a hurry. "I want you to ask me anything in the world you want to and I'll always do it."

"Well, let me take you home through the garden then, and yes, I believe I'll stay to break a muffin with Mrs. Henderson. Don't you want to tell me what a little girl like you did in a big city and—read me part of that London letter I saw the postman give Judy this afternoon?"

Again I ask myself the question why his friendliness to Alfred Bennett's letters always makes me so instantly cross.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

STALE SPONGE CAKE PUDDINGS.

DINNER MENU.
Tomato Soup.
Lamb Stew With Celery and Potatoes.
Buttered Peas. Boiled Rice.
Fruit and Cake Pudding. Coffee.

WHEN you have stale sponge cake do not throw it away. It may be used in concocting a number of delicious puddings.

Baked Sponge Cake Pudding.—Cut a stale sponge cake in slices and between each layer place a layer of sliced dates with the stones removed. Pour over all a custard made of two cups of milk, the yolks of two eggs, half a cupful of sugar and a teaspoonful of flavoring. Bake until the custard is set. Spread over the top a meringue made with the whites of the eggs and a half a cupful of sugar. Bake until brown.

An Attractive Dish.

Fig and Cake Pudding.—Take a round sponge cake and scoop out the inside, leaving a wall about two inches thick. Wash a pound of figs and put them in an earthen or granite stewpan with a pint of water. Add one-half pound of sugar, a few short pieces of stick cinnamon and the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Cook until the figs are tender and then skim them out of the liquid and let them cool. Put a half ounce of gelatin, which has been softened in cold water, into the sirup to thicken it. Let the sirup get almost cool, but not set. Put the cool figs into the cake and pour the sirup over them. Cover the top with whipped cream.

Serve with a little more whipped cream.

With Jam or Marmalade.

Steamed Cake Pudding.—Take about seven small sponge cakes, three eggs, a half pint of milk and some marmalade or jam.

Well butter a pudding dish. Line the sides and bottom of the dish with sponge cakes, split in half lengthways, and spread on one side with marmalade. Turn this marmalade side away from the sides of the dish. Spread a few more of the cakes with marmalade, cut them up in squares and fill the dish about three parts full of them. Then beat up the eggs (with slightly frothy; add the milk and a little powdered sugar if you like puddings very sweet. Pour this custard into the dish and put a thin layer of split cakes all over the top. Twist a piece of greased paper over the dish and steam the pudding gently for one and a half hours. Then turn it out and serve it with a custard sauce.

To Cure Salt Rheum and Scaly Skin

A most Effective Treatment and Quick in Results.

Salt rheum, scaly skin and other itching skin affections may be soothed by frequent applications of witch hazel. But the cure must come from the activity of the fine network of blood vessels that make up the skin formation. You should use S. S. S. for the blood. This splendid remedy is a marvel for salt rheum, eczema, lupus, psoriasis and scrofula. Ask at any drug store for a bottle of S. S. S., and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is direct, positive, certain in its influence. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy to-day, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar, write to The Swift Specific Co., 188 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Beware of all substitutes for S. S. S., the remedy you can depend upon for safety and effectiveness.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Miss Millicent McDonald, who has been spending several weeks in Illinois, suffered a severe attack of appendicitis several days ago, but was able to return home Tuesday evening.

Herbert Beldon, formerly a "star" player on the Crothersville baseball team, has a place on the Woodmen team at Indianapolis. The team is playing some excellent ball and has won a number of hard games this summer. Mr. Beldon's picture appeared in an Indianapolis paper a few days ago.

Billy Goodnight, colored, was the cause of some excitement on West Second street this morning. He had been imbibing freely and laid down on some canvas for a nap. He had a lighted cigar in his mouth and the ashes fell to the canvas setting fire to it. Several persons passing him noticed the smoke and extinguished the flames. Billy escaped without injury.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Forty-nine years as teacher in the public schools of Chicago is the record of Harriet N. Winchell.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, originator of the "moonlit schools" in Kentucky, has taught more than a thousand illiterate adults to read and write inside of two years.

Nine years' perfect attendance at school has been completed by Phyllis Hare, aged thirteen, of Woodston, Peterborough, England. She has never been absent since the age of four.

Mrs. Joynson, the only woman light-house keeper in England, who has just retired after twenty years in the lighthouse at Hale, is known all over England as the heroine of the Mersey.

Miss Ina Shepherd of Birmingham, Ala., is credited with being the first woman to have charge of a clearing house. Miss Shepherd for several years has been secretary of the Birmingham Clearing House association, and each month the clearings from eight banks, amounting to from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, pass through her hands.

Town Topics.

New York, it is said, will try to abolish noise, but why should New York thus seek to destroy the greater part of itself?—Charleston News and Courier.

Philadelphia will never advance as she should until we get rid of the petty jealousies of prominent citizens and a general all around "dog in the manger" spirit.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Bridgeport, Conn., is officially declared to be the cheapest place in the country to be sick in, and Cairo, Ill., the cheapest in which to die. But there is a deplorable economic waste-fulness in having them so far apart.—New York Tribune.
